

Jesuit High School

Jesuit High School is a prestigious college-preparatory school for boys, located in New Orleans, Louisiana. Founded in 1847, it is one of the oldest secondary educational institutions in the city. Jesuit High School follows the traditions and educational principles of the Jesuits, a Catholic religious order. The high school upholds a longstanding tradition of providing a well-rounded education rooted in academic excellence, spiritual formation, and service to others.

The architectural environment of Jesuit High School is a combination of classical, traditional, and modern styles, reflecting its rich heritage, while accommodating contemporary educational requirements. The campus has evolved over time, with different buildings and additions contributing to its overall architectural character.

About the Solution

In celebration of Jesuit High School's 175th Anniversary, ASI was tasked with designing and fabricating a new Display Wall, highlighting the achievements of generations of Blue Jays and the hallmarks of a Jesuit education.

Completed within a tight timeframe, every aspect of this project was expertly produced in-house by ASI. The installation was a special component of the milestone event, viewed by over 1,000 visitors over the course of the celebration.

ASI's custom-made signage package effectively showcases the achievements of Jesuit High School scholars throughout its 175-year history. The signage serves as a testament to the school's commitment to preparing students for success in higher education, while instilling values that promote personal growth and a commitment to making a positive impact on society.
